Name _____ Date _____ Period _____

Classical Conditioning Processes

Directions: Determine whether the following scenarios are examples of generalization, discrimination, extinction, or spontaneous recovery by placing a checkmark in the correct column.

	General-ization	Discrim-ination	Extinction	Spontaneous Recovery
1. Sinbad was frightened by a barking, lunging spaniel. Now he is afraid of all other dogs.
2. Sheila was frightened by a German Shepard when she was 5, but now is happy whenever she sees a dog.
3. Makoto hates the sight of a bee, but loves to watch hummingbirds
4. When Kim was small, she got sick after eating a bad oyster. Now, she refuses to eat anything that comes out of the sea.
5. Angie loves the smell of her grandmother's chocolate chip cookies, but thinks it doesn't like the smell of any other cookies.
6. Jamie had finally recovered from her fear of roller coasters, but one night when she was walking by the amusement park, the sudden screeching noise of the roller coaster made her heart jump from fear.
7. Romeo used to love the scent of his girlfriend's perfume, but now that they've broken up, it's just another odor to him.
8. Ken used to drool at the smell of peanut butter cookies as they baked, and he couldn't wait to sink his teeth into that first cookie. However, Ken's new roommate makes terrible peanut butter cookies, and the smell of them baking is no longer associated with a wonderful taste experience.
9. Mariah developed a fear of the water when she fell off a river raft last summer. This year she took swimming lessons and thought she had finally overcome her fear of water. She was eagerly looking forward to an upcoming rafting trip, however, as soon as she stepped onto the raft she was instantly terrified again.				